HOUSES COST TOO MUCH

Raymond M. Foley, Federal Housing Administrator, told Congress the other day that the nation "needs" between 17,000,000 and 18,000,000 new dwellings within the next 10 years. That, of course, is bureaucratic hokey.

Of course, every dweller in a neighborhood that is not 100 per cent desirable, every farm family in a frame house, every bride and bridegroom, every young couple living with old folks, could be said to need a new home.

The nation could use probably a million new homes today. The question is: How are they to be built?

Private industry, it might be said at the start, is doing a fairly good job of meeting the need. New homes are being built at the rate of approximately 900,000 dwelling units a year. But high wages and high material costs have put them out of reach of many persons.

The government will run head-on into the same problem if it attempts a large-scale housing program with public funds. Slum clearance, like every other type of housing, costs more than twice as much as it did before the war. If federal, state and municipal governments try to wipe out some of the worst slum spots with public funds, they will run out of money long before they build 500,000 homes.

Prefabricated housing, which once looked like the answer, is still a long way from high volume and low costs. But if labor would pitch in and raise its productivity, it might be possible to produce enough low-cost housing to prolong the housing construction boom for years to come.

DIVORCE DOESN'T HELP

Divorce, in most instances, fails to solve the problems it is intended to solve, a panel of psychiatrists announced the other day. Most people get divorces because they blame their inner conflicts on their spouses. But divorce doesn't help them, because they neglect to divorce their inner conflicts, too.

This judgment is worth pondering. Since divorce is a symptom of emotional immaturity, psychiatrists naturally take a professional interest in it. And as their sole interest is in treating the malady, they should be able to view the symptom more objectively than most persons do.

But if divorce is no solution, the psychiatrists say, neither is marriage. People who get married to solve their inner conflicts have no better luck, in general, than those who make divorce their panacea. Few partners in marriage are able to provide selfless love of the quality demanded by the self-esteem of the emotionally immature.

Psychiatrists might have added that to live alone and like it is not a solution either. They did say that the only answer was for the emotionally immature to face up to their inner conflicts and resolve them. For two persons who succeed in doing that, divorce will never be necessary.

Landlords Invited To Petition For Adjustments

Area Rent Director Joseph T. Turchi said today that under the present Federal Rent Law, no landlord needs to operate at a loss. "If any landlord in this area is operating at a loss," he emphasized, "I wish he would come right down to our office at 17 Brief Avenue, Upper Darby, and petition for an adjustment on his rents."

Mr. Turchi, who said there was much misunderstanding about some phases of the Rent Law, pointed out that last year he received specific instructions from Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods that any landlord who operated at a loss, even before rent control went into effect, would no longer have to do so.

"I've had people tell me they understood our agency expected landlords to operate at a loss," he said. "On the contrary, we do not. We have an adjustment provision to allow rent increases if they are needed to bring the landlord out of the red."

Mr. Turchi pointed out that the law offers 14 grounds upon which a landlord may petition his office for increased rent. Rent increases were granted to 194 of the 286 landlords who filed petitions last month.

He reminded that there is a so-called "short form" for landlords owning four or less units, so they can easily and simply get adjustments because of increased taxes, higher fuel costs, higher insurance rates or bigger utility bills, even though they do not have complete records.

Value of goods taken was given at $75.

Stephen Midoulin, vice-president of Kemline, stated he would take the two back on the payroll, as they were good employees.

The two were instructed to restore the value of the goods taken.

EXPLAINS WHY LEGION PROPOSES PENSIONS

Bracken Post Reprints An Article by Perry Brown, Commander

SETS FORTH REASONS

The following article by Perry Brown, National Commander of the American Legion, was printed in the February issue of the American Legion Magazine and is herewith re-printed by permission of the American Legion Magazine, at the request of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 552.

America's rising health standards mean longer lives, but what good does it do if "they" won't let him work?

When our 1948 National Convention at Miami adopted resolutions asking the Congress to grant pensions to certain veterans of World Wars I and II it used terms that were certain to arouse controversy. Most veterans understand the narrow distinction between disability allowances and pensions. When advancing age is accepted as a form of disability, the distinction vanishes. The facts about the existing disability allowance statute, and other facts pertinent to veterans welfare laws, are probably so much Greek to the editorial writers who immediately attack the American Legion for advocating pensions.

Knowing that I would be leading a Legion program for pensions, and that it would arouse opposition, whether well or ill founded, I at once made some efforts to study the facts which guided the delegates at Miami in their decision. Those efforts I have continued, and some of their results I will report in this article. They are the reasons motivating almost two-thirds of the delegates, those who answered yes on the roll call for resolution No. 44.

There is always a strong temptation to engage in argument whenever pensions are discussed. The fantastic "statistics" produced in some news comments are but one phase of the prime objection, which is that pensions cost money. A more current criticism is based on the present and future cost of our national defenses, an argument which quite overlooks the fact that almost four years have elapsed since the war and we have not yet adopted the soundest and least expensive plan for national defense — Universal Military Training. The Legion has been advocating that program with all its strength. It is almost amusing to be told that after all, the Spanish War was just a "little" war. No soldier who died in that conflict is just a little bit dead, nor are the elderly survivors of today just a little bit old. I am well aware that in Grover Cleveland's time the subject of pensions had some political connotation, but it certainly has none today. The private pension bills which Cleveland vetoed are less germane to our 1949 problem than the personal pensions of certain corporation executives which exceed $25,000 per year.

I do not propose to review the history of pension laws, which go back at least as far as Joshua's enumeration of the fighting men of Israel when he was settling them on farms in the Promised Land. I do not find it necessary to defend any or all pensions, per se. If I did I should quote the late Justice Holmes of the U. S. Supreme Court who drew a pension for many years after the War Between the States, and emphasized the fact that he did not need the money but wanted to make clear his belief that there should be no "needs test" or "pauper oath" connected with the payments of a grateful government to its defenders.

Neither do I regard it as of too great importance that title to a great many acres of land in the United States rests on original grants to veterans of our wars, including those to George Washington and the Army of the Revolution, and the land scrip issued to Abraham Lincoln for service in the Black Hawk Indian War, and to Robert E. Lee, U. S. Grant, and other leaders in the Mexican conflict. Our present concern reflects the past only insofar as the past has recorded a national loyalty to those who have been most loyal to the nation.

One of our Miami resolutions asked for pensions equivalent to those granted to veterans of the Spanish-American War, which are based on age and disability or on age alone as a form of disability from gainful work. The second resolution specified age 55 as a starting point. Because of certain technical differences involved in the two resolutions, and the need of drafting careful legislation adjusted to existing compensation and allowance laws, the National Executive Committee authorized me to name a special committee to prepare a pension program. That committee is at work as I write this. The resulting recommendations will be laid before the Congress with the full force of American Legion approval and support.

My study of the reasons underlying our present demand found one vigorous expression from men who served or are serving as the Service Officers of Legion Posts and departments. To their offices have come, day after day, the World War I veterans above 55 years of age who have been unable to find employment. Many of these men have physical disabilities other than the limitations of age. Many are without any sort of provision for themselves or their families, are outside the very limited social security benefits, have no industrial pension, union benefits, or other income. The chances of finding employment for them are meagre. Business and industry are not hiring men over 55. The very existence of industrial pension plans, insurance plans, and other modern efforts to provide for older persons are barriers to new employment of older men or women. It has been actual "case work" with thousands of individuals in advancing years which has convinced many of our service officers that no method except federal pensions will relieve these men from the terrors of an old age dependent on charity. Out of this backlog of experience with a clear, absolute need arose a substantial part of the vote for the pension resolutions at Miami.

My discussions have included inquiries of many World War II veterans who are yet many years removed from any pension benefit suggested by the Legion. A good many of these young men supported the pension request solely out of consideration for their older comrades. For themselves they expect to hew out their own careers, and are already doing so. They are appreciative of the fact that the veterans of the earlier World War had no G. I. Bill of Rights and no social security laws, and that their savings, if any, have been diluted by inflation and high prices. Many of these younger veterans are opposed to pensions as a general proposition and confident that they will shape their lives and their country's progress so as to obviate their need. A very strong vein of pure patriotism runs through their thinking about the war they fought and the sacrifices they made. It was one for all and all for one United States.

Another viewpoint expressed to me by numbers of World War II men has dealt with the present policies of the armed services regarding pensions. They have observed the advertisements for army recruiting which set forth that the peacetime soldier of today is being offered $75 per month as base pay, a promise of all the benefits of the G. I. Bill, and a pension at the end of twenty years of service. Added inducements held out to him are thirty days annual leave and three day passes every sixty days, besides normal week-ends. He can get a college education and other blessings by joining the peacetime regulars. Assuming he works up to a master sergeant, and started at age 18, he may be pensioned at age 38 with $114 a month for life.

This rosy picture is not appealing to men who landed on the beaches of North Africa and Normandy and Iwo Jima. They got fifty bucks a month, less insurance and family allotments. They were not fighting for pay, but they are a little provoked that a peacetime army has rejected the advice of General Marshall and General Eisenhower about Universal Military Training and is trying to build up a Regular Army de luxe at fancy pay, privileges and pensions. As one young man expressed it: "If they are going to pension these peacetime heroes for white-washing the stones around the colonel's lawn, maybe we had better begin looking for our own fellows."

Evidently the retirement privilege (tax free) accorded the big brass, and the pension program for the peacetime enlisted men, has some bearing on current thought about the position of elderly and unemployed fighting veterans. The recent insistence upon a highly-paid professional army, as against the plainly democratic and militarily advantageous program of a universally trained and organized reserve (U.M.T.) points in the same direction.

We know the score about the older veterans who are unemployed. Our Legion Economic Commission recently queried a list of industries regarding employment of men over 50 years of age. The first returns showed that fewer than 20 percent of employed forces in 14 industries were over 50 years of age, and not one industry queried was hiring men over that age for any purpose.

It is a firmly rooted idea in the American Legion that men who have fought for this country are not going to end their days on a street corner with a tin cup in their hand.

The Legion is not going to quibble about the words compensation, disability allowance, or pension. It is just going to tell the Congress about what is needed for men of advancing years who have defended this nation, and it is going to ask for charity, but for what seems to be fair, decent and right. It may add the reminder that "Governments that lose wars never have to pay pensions." Wars are won by men who are willing to die for their country. Our Government lives today because of such men.

Loyalty must beget loyalty. The Legion will never ask America for anything that is not part and parcel of that loyalty.

Note: The Legion Pension Plan was presented to 81st Congress Jan. uary 5th.

At the meeting of the Aeromodelers, on Sunday, stunt rules for the club control line contest were explained to the group, and all junior club members were urged to get into this competition. Nine more weeks of competition remain before awarding prizes. To date none of the members have tried to perform stunts which would give their point scores a rapid rise.

New member for the week was Donald Zepp. Three door prizes were awarded.

AMA sanction for their meets. One of the first ones is expected to take place at Bethlehem. On May 15 a large contest will be held by the Mayfair Exchange Club. Events will be: free flight, gas powered, rubber powered, and glider. Details of the other contests are not yet known. Such early announcements, members feel, bear promise for a record contest season because at this time last year no announcements had been made. In an effort to exclude "expert" model competitors in Exchange Club sponsored contests, and those who are also over 21 years of age, contest directors were urged to stage special events for such contestants who would be allowed to compete for certificates.

This move is believed to have been caused by a clique of "expert" speed model fliers who consistently took valuable awards at every contest last year. Sundays unexpected weather caught most model fliers unaware but a few turned out for a flying session. Despite the fact only a few fliers were active, several hundred spectators were attracted during the afternoon. The club would like to ask all spectators who drive automobiles to these flying sessions, to not park on the driveway since it interferes with traffic to and from the Wilson plant.

The workshop will soon be equipped with tools. It will be decided at this week's meeting what tools are needed. "Movies" are expected to be shown, and door prizes will also be given.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

PHONE OR WRITE to Snellenburgs. If you can't get to town to shop, for any article I tell you about or, for that matter, any article in the shop's large advertisements. The mail and phone order departments of this accommodating store have been newly streamlined for quick and friendly service. There are several phone numbers you may call, depending upon where you live. Town dwellers may call L.O. 2007-5200, suburbanites may call E.N. 10160, Camden "Budgeteers" WX-1150. If you shop in person, by the way, you can find easy parking at the rear door of the shop—in the Stephen Girard garage.

FEED THE GROUND now, if you would have the best vegetables, the finest flowers, the greenest lawns in the neighborhood. The Garden Dept. of Snellenburgs has your spring supply of good sheep and cow manure fertilizers. Why not phone or write for your share immediately? Order the manures in small or large lots. Both manures are the same price, namely—5 lbs. 45c, 10 lbs. 79c, 25 lbs. $1.55, 50 lbs. $2.77, 100 lbs. $4.49. Also, 10 lb. quantities of lime can be bought for only 45c. (1st fl.)

SAVE MONEY by investing in an efficient raincoat. It is surprising how many women and men side-step a rain-garment, thinking it a luxury. It's an economy when you consider pressing and cleaning bills, the shrinking and shabbiness a rain-soaking can cause. $4.95, the price of a snappy "Vynylite" transparent tailored rain-garment (with rain kerchief) for women, is an investment. So is the similar but opaque olive-green "Vynylite" raincoat for men. These plastic coats do not scuff, peel, rot or mildew! Clean with damp cloth. When ordering, name size, small, medium, or large. Nice for gifts. Umbrella Dept., Snellenburgs. (1st fl.)

STEP OUT for Spring! You can, if you select a pair of chic shoes from among the "Miracle-Treds" beauties that have just arrived in the Shoe Dept. of Snellenburgs. These comfortable shoes, built for body poise, are amazingly reasonable in price—a mere $7.95—and they come in a nice range of sizes. There are black patents and black or brown kids in many latest styles and heel heights. "Miracle-Treds" prove that shoes built for comfort need not be stupid in design. Look these "Miracle-Treds" over. (1st fl.)

P.S. Do send clippings with mail orders when you can! Phone free (5c, 10c, and 15c out-of-town calls only). Penna.—ENT. 10160; Jersey—WX-1150. Shop located Market, 11th to 12th Sts., Phila.—through to 1125-29 Chestnut St. Be hearin' from you! Faithfully, FAITH.

YOU WHO DIET for any reason whatsoever, will find all sorts of regulated foods in the diet corner of Snellenburgs Chestnut St. Food Shop. Have you tried those marvelous sugar-substitutes—"Sweet-Aids"? They have no food value and—imagine—are six hundred times sweeter than sugar! They're entirely free from unpleasant after-taste that some sugar-substitutes have. Priced at—100 for 25c, 500 for $1, 1000 for $1.75 (1st fl.)

THE WHOLE FAMILY, including Dad, can indulge in a hobby producing lasting beauty—rug-making. All can work on the same rug, or the youngsters can work on a smaller one. The rugs are of the durable hair-loom type. The Art Needlework Dept. of Snellenburgs will teach you or your men. It's easy! No frame or loom is needed for these pull-through floral "American Lady" rugs. The scrim foundation patterns cost from $3.50 to $10.00; the 100% wool costs 25c a package. The number of packages needed depends upon the rug size. If Dad's restless—here's the answer! (2nd fl.)

SHABBY BATHROOMS give a guest raised eyebrows. Of course, a coat of paint will help mightily, but the rejuvenation will not be a complete success if a toilet seat is cracked or scarred. This, however, is soon and economically remedied with the purchase of a $5.95 long-wearing, easily adjusted, plastic toilet seat. The Housewares Dept. of Snellenburgs has them in practically eight beautiful colors! (3rd fl.)

BEAUTIFUL SHIRTS, and I mean beautiful! These luxurious washable rayon "Teca" sport shirts for men, created by "Wayne," have put the seal of approval on color, any color, to highlight men's all-too-drag ensembles. The flat surface of the fine material keeps any shade from being garish. The range of shades amazes me. You'll agree that they're an eye-fel—pearl gray, sand, softest pink, beige, sky blue, navy, canary, rose, wine, brown, ivory, Newport green, helio, seafoam, etc., etc.! Your men will appreciate the pointed collar styles, pearl buttons, twin flap pockets, full length adjustable cuff sleeves. Why not secretly order some, from the Men's Furnishings Dept. of Snellenburgs, for Easter? You can't go wrong at only $3.95 each. (1st fl.)

POTENA MOVES UP FROM EIGHTH TO SIXTH PLACE

The leaders in the individual scoring race of the Bristol Basketball League maintained their positions during the past week. The only jump was made by Joe Potena of Fifth Ward, who moved from eighth to sixth spot.

"Johnny" Pindar, Prof's, is setting a terrific pace for the shooters having made 274 points in 12 games or close to 24 points per game. He has practically clinched the scoring honors as most of the teams have but two games remaining on the schedule. Others have three.

"Johnny" Rodgers, diminutive scoring ace of the Hibernians, is trailing Pindar by 96 points while Dick Mingin, Fifth Ward, is in third spot with 165 counters.

Other players who have hit the 100-point circle are: Van Lenten, St. Ann's; Mama Prof's; Ransom, Franklin; Stradling and Wilmot, Morrisville; Anderson and Roy Lynch, Falls Alumni; Lelinski, Rohm & Haas; and Keys, Franklin.

DEADLOCK PLAYOFF WILL BE TUESDAY

Bristol High and Morrisville High will play off their deadlock for the Lower Bucks County basketball championship Tuesday night on the Junior No. 2 floor in Trenton, N. J. Officials of the school decided on the above date and neutral floor yesterday. There will also be a preliminary game between the Junior Varsity teams of the schools, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Bristol and Morrisville won five and lost one during the circuit's season.

Also on Tuesday night, the Bristol Junior High School team will play the Sellersville-Perkasie Junior High quintet in the first of a three-game series to determine the Junior High championship of Bucks County. This game will be played on the local floor.

Tomorrow night, Bristol ends its regular schedule of games, playing Brown Prep on the home court.

234 Bucks Co. Pupils Are Guests at Court

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 24 — Two hundred and thirty-five Bucks County pupils were in court yesterday, they representing Bristol, Langhorne-Middletown, Council Rock, Morrisville, and Springfield-Durham schools.

Miss Gladys Hewitt and Charles F. Boyd were in charge of the 42 Bristol High School seniors.

Langhorne-Middletown high school was represented by 57 seniors under the direction of Mrs. Jane Todd and Miss Georgiana Stachle.

Sixty-five students comprised the Council Rock High School, of Newtown, assemblage. Miss Rowena Diamond, Warren Grim and Dominic Sagolla were the teachers in charge.

With James Wood in charge, Morrisville high school's delegation numbered 51 seniors. Springfield-Durham high school had 15 students present under the supervision of Walter Rohrer.

President Judge Hiram H. Keller welcomed the students and teachers. He explained the selection of 1600 names of men and women eligible for jury service during the year.

"Jury service is just as compulsory as being drafted into the U. S. Army," said the Court.

"Happily, we have never had any real difficulty in Bucks County."

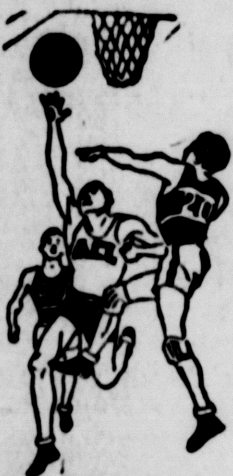

The students were given an outline of criminal court procedure.

The student aggregations were also given permission to visit the County Prison.

Several of the schools visited the Bucks County Historical Society Museum.
